Description

The Shki-Miikan Foundation year was developed in partnership with the Anishnabe Education and Training Circle. This certificate is intended to enhance the Aboriginal student's sense of cultural identity; develop a solid academic base; assess education/career options; and develop self-management skills. Cultural teachings and smudging are integrated daily throughout each academic semester in social activities, individual program courses, and Traditional Teacher/Elder visits. (Please note: Aboriginal includes First Nations, Métis and Inuit People)

Career Opportunities

Most graduates will use the Shki-Miikan Foundation year as a stepping stone to further studies at the college level. Others may choose to seek employment in supportive occupations requiring a general education or with organizations that prefer to administer their own training program.

Program Learning Outcomes

The graduate has reliably demonstrated the ability to:

- identify generational factors that contribute to health, social and economic issues affecting Aboriginal communities;

- discover aspects of one's individual identity and embark on a path towards a life-long wellness journey;
- discuss cultural awareness and sensitivity through an exploration of Aboriginal culture, language, tradition and healing;
- examine accountability, professionalism and ethical behaviour in the workplace;
- plan and prepare communications and presentations utilizing various approaches;
- demonstrate awareness of cultural diversification.
